Introduction

International finance is about capital-market transactions involving more than one country or currency.

This field has long attracted leading scholars, including Professor Robert Hodrick, who is the senior author of the text for this course (see below.) Three decades ago he revolutionised the traditional advice offered by scholars on how to forecast exchange rates over short time horizons. Recently Hodrick entered the highly competitive market for textbooks on international finance, in collaboration with Professor Geert Bekaert, one of his most successful former PhD students.

The topics covered in this course include exchange rates (ie, prices of foreign currencies), the balance of payments, business financing and investment decisions involving more than one country, the capital asset pricing model in an international setting, risk management in an international setting, and foreign currency derivatives.

ECON360 International Finance provides students with analytical tools that enable them to research or engage with confidence in international business decisions. For example, risk management in international business involves currency risks, ie, unexpected shifts in currency values that create difficulties for your business operations or balance sheet. ECON360 provides tools that enable you to recognise and know when to hedge such risks. It will extend both your numeric and writing skills.

Assessment

Mid-session examination, in Week 7, & in place of lectures that week* 20%
Review essay, due by Wednesday 12 October 20%
Final examination 60%
Total 100%

*Mid-session examination: each week students will work through a set of tutorial questions on the topics discussed during the lecture of the previous week (see below for topics week by week). Your mid-session examination is 50 minutes plus 10 minutes reading time. It will be based primarily on questions along the lines of the numeric/short answer tutorial questions on lectures presented from weeks 1 to 6 (see below).

Review essay: write a 1600 word summary and evaluation of any single one of the six classic articles on international finance (listed below.) By “review essay” I mean a summary in your own words of the article you have chosen to review, together with an appraisal of it. You can choose your own preferred proportions of summary and appraisal, so long as there is a significant amount of each. You will receive a slightly higher mark if, other things equal, the article you choose to review is comparatively difficult. Your bibliography need not be extensive. Submit in BESS. Keep a copy of your essay.
Final examination: to be held at a time and place to be announced in due course by the administration. It will be based on lectures and tutorials from weeks 1 to 13 (see below), with an emphasis on material presented after the mid-session examination.

Students will be able to access the unit web page by using their normal university Student ID Number and Password on http://learn.mq.edu.au. Further help may also be provided by the Learning and teaching Centre: http://www.mq.edu.au/learningandteachingcentre.

Plagiarism

The University defines plagiarism in its rules: "Plagiarism involves using the work of another person and presenting it as one’s own." Plagiarism is a serious breach of the University’s rules and carries significant penalties. You must read the University’s practices and procedures on plagiarism. These can be found in the Handbook of Undergraduate Studies or on the web at: http://www.student.mq.edu.au/plagiarism

The policies and procedures explain what plagiarism is, how to avoid it, the procedures that will be taken in cases of suspected plagiarism, and the penalties if you are found guilty. Penalties may include a deduction of marks, failure in the unit, and/or referral to the University Discipline Committee.

University policy on grading

Academic Senate has a set of guidelines on the distribution of grades across the range from fail to high distinction. Your final result will include one of these grades plus a standardized numerical grade (SNG). On occasion your raw mark for a unit (i.e., the total of your marks for each assessment item) may not be the same as the SNG which you receive. Under the Senate guidelines, results may be scaled to ensure that there is a degree of comparability across the university, so that units with the same past performances of their students should achieve similar results. It is important that you realize that the policy does not require that a minimum number of students are to be failed in any unit. In fact it does something like the opposite, in requiring examiners to explain their actions if more than 20% of students fail in a unit. The process of scaling does not change the order of marks among students. A student who receives a higher raw mark than another will also receive a higher final scaled mark. For an explanation of the policy
