Michael Olive
Lecturer in charge
ECON303 INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS

Students should read this unit outline at the start of the semester as it contains important information about the unit. If anything is unclear, please consult the lecturer in charge.

ECON303 International Economics is an upper-level elective course with a credit point value of three. It extends the lessons learnt in 100 and 200-level economics units to the specialised area of international economics, as well as providing additional analytic tools and insights appropriate to this area of study. The unit places strong emphasis on developing analytical and theoretical skills as a means of encouraging rigorous and logical thinking about real-world economic questions. As a result, it is hoped that students will finish the course with a framework for thinking about the international economy and an appreciation of the issues that are current in international economics.

I. COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course is divided into two main sections: the pure (non-monetary) theory of international trade and international monetary theory. Within the first section, the following topics are discussed: What causes international trade? How is the pattern of trade determined? What are the economic welfare gains from free trade in goods and factors (globalisation)? What are the welfare effects of tariffs and other non-tariff barriers? Is there a valid economic case for interventionist trade policy such as protection? Within the second section, we analyse the working of the international monetary system, including the role of the International Monetary Fund. What determines the exchange rate? What is the impact of macro policy on the current account and output? What is the economic argument behind the newly created European Monetary Union and what is the future role of the euro vis-à-vis the U.S. dollar?

A summary of the course content is as follows:

1. The gravity model
2. Ricardian theory of comparative advantage
3. Heckscher-Ohlin model of comparative advantage
4. “New” theories of trade
5. Tariffs and trade policy
6. International monetary system and IMF
7. Exchange rate determination
8. Macro policy and current account
9. European Monetary Union and optimum currency areas

Lecturer
Ron Ripple: E4A Rm407, ph. 9850 7063, email: rripple@efs.mq.edu.au

Michael Olive will be taking the international trade lectures in the first half of the course and Ron Ripple will be taking the international monetary lectures in the second half of the course. Enquiries related to the lecture material should be directed to the relevant lecturer, while questions related to course administration should be directed to Michael Olive. You will be notified about consultation times in week 2.

III. WEB PAGE

http://online.mq.edu.au

Then click on login and enter your username and password. Students can use this site as a major means of obtaining updated information regarding the unit e.g. timetable adjustments, consultation times, lecture summaries, unit outline, etc. The site also contains a discussion board that allows students to make comments and ask questions regarding the unit. Later in the course, students will be asked to submit an electronic version of their essay on this web page using the private mail function.

IV. COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Students should attend all lectures and tutorials and are required to submit an essay of no more than 2,000 words on one of the topics listed at the end of this unit outline. There is also a three-hour final examination. Students must pass the final exam in order to pass the course.

The essay is due on Thursday, 19th October, 2006 at 4pm. Students should hand their essay in at ERIC and submit an electronic version online to the ECON303 website. Late essays will be penalized a one mark deduction for each day late and there will be no extension without a medical certificate. Failure to hand in an essay before the final exam will result in a fail mark for the course. When you hand in your essay, you must include a cover page and a signed statement indicating that you understand the meaning and consequences of plagiarism. The relevant forms are at the back of this unit outline.

During this course there are four tutorials. Students that do not attend all four tutorials without a medical certificate will not be eligible for a supplementary exam should they require one.
V. ASSESSMENT

Final examination  80%
Essay          20%

VI. TEXT BOOKS

Textbook (recommended to buy)

Tutorial Topics (useful to buy, if cashed-up)

These books are held in the reserve section of the University library. Tutorial articles from King and King (2005) can be downloaded from E-Readings linked to the library web page under Reserve (see University library web-site: www.lib.mq.edu.au). Note that this is separate to the unit website.

VII. LECTURE AND TUTORIAL TIMES

There are two hours of lectures each week at the following times and places (note that the evening lecture is a repeat of the day lecture):

Day Lectures

| Monday       | 14.00 - 16.00 | E6A 133 |

Evening Lectures

| Wednesday    | 18.00 - 20.00 | W6B 282 |

Students are required to attend four one hour tutorials during the semester i.e. tutorials are not held every week. Tutorials will be held during Week 3 (14/8/06 and 16/8/06), Week 5 (28/8/06 and 30/8/06), Week 10 (16/10/06 and 18/10/06) and Week 12 (30/10/06 and 1/11/06). The tutorial times and locations are as follows:

| Monday       | 11.00 -12.00 | C5C 236 |
| Monday       | 12.00 -13.00 | C5C 236 |
| Monday       | 16.00 -17.00 | C5A 307 |
| Wednesday    | 20.00 -21.00 | W6B 282 |
VIII. LECTURE OUTLINE AND READING GUIDE

IX. TUTORIAL PROGRAM

YOU ARE REQUIRED TO READ THE RECOMMENDED TUTORIAL READING BEFORE THE TUTORIAL IN ORDER TO BE ABLE TO PARTICIPATE IN THE DISCUSSION. NOTE THAT THIS MATERIAL IS EXAMINABLE.

TUTORIAL

1. (14/8 and 16/8)  Ch.18 (King and King): World Bank, “The New Wave of Globalisation and its Economic Effects”

Discussion questions (p.230), Q 5, 7.

2. (28/8 and 30/8)  Ch.1 (King and King): Feenstra, “How Costly is Protectionism?”

Discussion questions (p.65), Q 1, 2.

3. (16/10 and 18/10)  Ch. 23 (King and King): Kenen, “Fixed versus Floating Exchange Rates”

Discussion questions (p.303), Q 7.

4. (30/10 and 1/11)  Ch. 22 (King and King): Hopper, “What Determines the Exchange Rate…”

Discussion questions (p. 303), Q 4.
X. ESSAY TOPICS

You are required to compose an essay that is no more than 2000 words long on one of the topics given below. Along with each topic, a list of articles from King and King (2005) are given. In order to pass this section of the course, you must reference each of these articles in your essay. Any other reference material sourced must be from scholarly journals (for example, articles that can be accessed via Econlit or Science Direct).

To do well (credit or above) on the essay, you will need to demonstrate good generic skills. This will involve: a discussion focused on the specific essay question; coherent, critical and concise argument that employs economic thinking and analysis; an ability to understand the lecture and textbook material and weave this into your argument. You do not need many additional references to do well on the essay i.e. evidence of clever thinking is what I am looking for. Aim for a well-structured presentation that includes an abstract, an introduction that identifies the purpose and focus of the essay, a conclusion that draws the argument together and correct referencing. The essay should be double spaced and typed on one side of the paper.

TOPICS

1. Do the benefits of international free trade outweigh the costs? Discuss.

2. On what basis may countries decide which type of exchange rate system to adopt? Use Cooper (2005) to examine and assess critically the above question, and place your discussion in the context of the arguments for and against fixed and flexible exchange rates.

DEFINITION OF PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism involves using the work of another person and presenting it as one’s own. Any of the following acts constitutes plagiarism unless the source of each quotation or piece of borrowed material is clearly acknowledged:

(a) copying out part(s) of any document of audio-visual material (including computer-based material);
(b) using or extracting another person’s concepts, experimental results, or conclusions, including paying an individual to write all or part of an essay.
(c) summarising another person’s work;
(d) in an assignment where there was collaborative preparatory work, submitting substantially the same final version of any material as another student.

Encouraging or assisting another person to commit plagiarism is a form of improper collusion and may attract the same penalties.

STATEMENT TO BE SIGNED BY STUDENT:

1. I have read the definition of plagiarism that appears above.
2. In my essay I have carefully acknowledged the source of any material which is not my own work.
3. I am aware that the penalties for plagiarism can be very severe.
